

RISEUP-PPD WORKSHOP

THREE NATIONAL PERSPECTIVES IN EUROPE ON EXPERIENCES OF RESEARCHERS IN GAINING INFORMED CONSENT FROM WOMEN WITH PPD IN RESEARCH

We are very pleased to invite you to the Riseup-PPD upcoming seminar!

The seminar will explore ethical issues relevant for informed consent in research about women with PPD. The three presentations give insights to informed consent from three different perspectives. Together they will bring out the nuances of similarities as well as differences in the ethical issues of informed consent in research conducted in different research designs, disciplines, and countries. The importance of informed consent is relevant and shared by all of them, but different ethical aspects may become important in different settings. The multidisciplinary cross-border seminar will provide possibilities to share insights, learn from others as well as find solutions to challenges of informed consent together.

How to apply?

No registration required! The first 295 people can attend. All interested in issues of informed consent in research on women with PPD are welcome!

Details

October 1, 2021

13-15 UTC (Ireland),
14-16 CET (Spain),
15-17 EET (Finland)

Zoom event
(University of Turku, Finland)

Click the link

Programme

Opening words - Susanne Uusitalo, PhD (Philosophy), Turku Institute for Advanced Studies, University of Turku, Finland, leader of WG4 Ethics in COST Action Riseup-PPD

Informed consent: a dynamic relational based process - Professor Agnes Higgins School of Nursing and Midwifery, Trinity College Dublin, Ireland

Online informed consent in practice: a Spanish perspective in perinatal mental health research - Ms. Meritxell Escalé Besa. Midwife in Primary Care at the Catalan Institute of Health (ICS) & Dr. Jesus Cobo. Consultant Psychiatrist at the Consorci Corporació Sanitària Parc Taulí - CIBERSAM - I3PT - Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona, Spain

Ethical challenges in intervention studies focusing on women with PPD - Psychologist, Postdoctoral researcher, Sari Ahlqvist-Björkroth Department of Clinical Medicine at the Faculty of Medicine, University of Turku, Finland

Scan the QR code and find out more about our Action!